

GLOBAL SCANDINAVIAN LEADERSHIP PROGRAM

Learn to lead across borders, time zones and cultural differences by using new collaborative technologies

Global Scandinavian Leadership (GSL) is a course which will increase your ability to lead, work and network online. In particular, GSL will give you stronger skills to lead teams of people coming together online from all over the world.

Because the world of business is becoming more global organisations and managers must increasingly rely on online tools to lead and get people together in teams. This is why GSL is happening exclusively online. By using new online tools we not only train you in GSL, but also in getting familiar with state-of-the art IT-solutions.

We call it 'Scandinavian' because we will dig into the Scandinavian leadership culture to explore whether this can be inspirational to Asian and global leadership cultures. We at IME believe that the Scandinavian approach to leadership might have the answer to this new management challenge. Scandinavian leadership is very much anchored in traits like 'trust', 'inclusion' and 'equality'. Traits which seem to fit well with this new leadership scenario.

It is exactly these characteristics (and more) which we will discuss in GSL – if and how they can be implemented in other business and management cultures for better performance and business results.

During a 7-week period you will learn and discuss online with other leaders from around the globe. During the online sessions you will also meet guest experts and speakers who will share their learnings and thoughts on GSL. All sessions will be led and moderated by Lars Hoffmann, Online Learning Expert from IME.
